

◆ Summary

The IPOX Indexes performed strongly last week, motivated by rising global benchmarks and exposure to outperforming emerging markets stocks. Busy week ahead for global IPO activity. Intel Capital announces to increase its threshold to fund/invest in IT companies.

◆ Highlights

IPOX Global Universe:

- The IPOX Global Indexes outperformed major benchmark indexes and closed higher for the fifth week in a row. The IPOX Global Composite Index (IPGLC), currently tracking the performance of 2041 companies and USD 1trillion of float, marched into positive territory YTD (2.00%).
- Relative volatility stabilized and relative performance bounced, as the IPOX-30 Global Index (IPGL30) recaptured some ground which had been lost in last week's trading.

- Friday's broad strength motivated by a continued recovery in US Financials capped stronger relative gains during the week. Buying in benchmark indexes was again met by selling in defensive and negative correlation plays such as in IPOX heavyweight GDF Suez (-3.41%) or Friday's weakness in Philip Morris International (4.17%). Exposure to strongly performing emerging markets constituents such as Chinese Financials and notably Russia's VTB Bank (+9.44%) or OAO Rosneft (+7.49%) helped to mitigate some this individual weakness in IPOX developed markets exposure.
- Ahead of Bridgepoints IPO, we observe with interest last week's profit taking in online education stocks Grand Canyon (-9.40%) or Capella Education (-9.97%).

IPOX Developed Markets Universe:

- The IPOX U.S. universe traded higher on the week and in line with the key benchmarks. The broad IPOX-100 U.S. Index (IPXO) extended its gains YTD to 1.62%, again benefiting from around 50% exposure to US small/mid-caps, which outperformed the second week in a row, as the Russell 2000 rallied 4.00%.
- The picture continued to be very similar in the IPOX Europe universe: Slight underperformance in the narrower IPOX-30 Europe universe (IXTE) was again caused by heavyweights GDF Suez (-3.41%) and Renewable Energy (-9.06%), while the broader JP Morgan IPOX Europe 50 Index (IPXUJPEU) performed slightly better due to a larger allocation to European small and mid-caps.

IPOX EM Focus: IPOX Latam 20 and IPOX BRIC 25:

- The IPOX Latam 20 Index (IPXULATT) and IPOX BRIC 25 Index (IPXUBRIC) continued to highlight the increasing risk appetite of global investors indicated by their strong outperformance.
- Motivated by strength in Cosan, B2W and OGX, the IPOX Latin America 20 Index rose 8.37% on the week, extending the YTD relative gains versus benchmark MXLA to 437 basis points on declining relative volatility.

Busy week for global stock offerings, Intel Capital

As global risk appetite increases, look for a busy week in global IPOs activity: Rosetta Stone (US), Bridgepoint (US) and Vodafone Qatar. Ahead of a potential filing for Facebook, Japanese social networker and Dec. 2008 IPO Gree Inc. rose 7.59%. What may be signs of perceived windows of opportunities following dry IPO markets, Intel Capital announced to increase its threshold to fund investments in IT companies,
