

◆ Summary

In what is a cautious sign regarding the sustainability of the rally in global equities, the IPOX Indexes lost leadership last week, as broad based indexes outperformed and US small-caps rallied strongly. The IPOX Latin America 20 index proved an exception, extending the YTD rise to 62.84%.

◆ Highlights

IPOX Global Universe:

- Following six weeks of outperformance, the IPOX Global Indexes lost leadership last week with the IPOX-30 Global Index (IPGL30) gaining just 0.11%, underperforming benchmarks MSCI World (MXWO) and S&P 500 (SPX) by 116 and 217 bps, respectively.
- Ahead of a big week for US debt, yields continued to rise and a late rebound lifted the US Dollar while relative Volatility (Chart below) remained subdued.
- As Chinese Financials such as Bank of Communications (+8.28%) and China Merchants (+4.95%) continued to rise, developed markets components such as MetroPCs (-17.34%) or Sony Financial (-7.57%) lagged again.

- 35/100 companies in the broader IPOX-100 Global (IPGL100) Index fell on the week with the equally-weighted IPOX-100 Global constituent outperforming the applied market-cap weighted index by 42 bps. Dividend-heavy consumer staples led the IPOX Global Sectors, gaining 4.40%, while IPOX Global Health Care (-3.47%) and IPOX Global Utilities (-1.44%) underperformed.

[Week ending 06/05/09]

IPOX Developed Markets Universe:

- The IPOX U.S. universe lagged the key US benchmarks for the second week in a row with the IPOX-30 U.S. (IPXT) Index underperforming the S&P 500 (SPX) and NASDAQ-100 Index (NDX) by 128 and 302 bps, respectively. Some individual components moved sharply, with IPOX-100 U.S. (IPXO) member Western Refining dropping -40.14% on earnings/dilution worries.
- Declining utilities and continued relative weakness in alternative energy/industrials pressured the IPOX Europe universe. While the broader JP Morgan IPOX Europe 50 rose on the week, the narrower IPOX-30 Europe Index (IXTE) fell slightly, underperforming European benchmarks by between 100 and 200 bps.
- Selected Japanese-domiciled IPOX constituents continued to pressure the relative performance of the IPOX-30 Asia-Pacific Index (IPTA): While social networker Gree Inc. reached a post IPO high, the bottom six worst index performers were all Japanese, losing -8.06% on average. IPOX constituent Olam International rose 13.42%, as Temasek Holdings invests.

IPOX Emerging Markets (EM) Universe:

- As the IPOX China universe underperformed benchmarks slightly and spreads between A and H shares stabilized in rising markets, clear focus was on the IPOX Latin America 20 Index (IPXULATT):
- The index, which captured the performance of the 20 largest and most liquid IPOs and spin-offs domiciled in a Latin American country over a four-year cycle, extended the YTD gain to 62.84% (in USD) on the back of strong momentum in 2008 IPO OGX (+14.67%) and a continuing rise in JBS (+8.97%), the world's largest pig/cattle producer.
